CEO Message

The work we do has a significant impact on the lives of the people we deal with. Complaints - and all types of feedback - give us a golden opportunity to hear the voices of the people using our services. If we use this information effectively it means we will have a better understanding of what our services look like from the outside and how we might improve.

The way we respond to complaints also sends a message about the kind of organisational culture we have. If we are responsive, respectful and approachable we will hear the messages people are giving us and they will know they have been heard.

We may be under pressure from our workloads and not always agree with what is being said, however, the experience of the complaints process itself can have a significant impact on our ongoing relationship with that person.

I would like to encourage you to be open to hearing complaints and to looking more closely at why the complaint has come about in the first place. By doing this we are sending a powerful message to the people who use our services that we are listening and can change the way we do our work to best suit their needs.

Scope and purpose of this policy

This complaints policy is intended to clarify Legal Aid NSW key messages about complaint handling. Complaint handling procedures are documented separately.

Objectives

Legal Aid NSW provides a range of legal services to socially and economically disadvantaged people. We are committed to continuous improvement in achieving our goal of excellence in legal services. An effective complaints handling system is key to providing quality service. A complaint can be a measurement of client/stakeholder satisfaction which provides information on the quality of our services. Legal Aid NSW uses information from complaints to identify risks and find ways to improve services.

It is important that staff understand what is expected of them when responding to people who are dissatisfied with Legal Aid NSW services. Clear organisational expectations and processes will support staff in responding appropriately and making decisions that are in keeping with Legal Aid NSW overall objectives. As part of our overall service delivery Legal Aid NSW expects staff to handle complaints:

- fairly
- efficiently
- responsively
- respectfully
- in a timely manner.

Legal Aid NSW promotes a positive and responsive culture towards handling complaints. In order to promote good practice we recognise and reward good complaint handling by staff.

General principles

Legal Aid NSW complaint handling process is based on the following principles:

- it is free to make a complaint to us - people will not be charged if they complain
- we have a user friendly system for accepting feedback
- complainants will be treated with respect
- there will be no detrimental action to complainants as a result of making a complaint
- there are clear delegations and procedures for staff to deal with complaints and provide remedies
- there are clear internal and external referral procedures if a complaint is not resolved at the frontline
- we use a recording system to capture complaint feedback/data
- we have performance standards including timeframes for response and quality of response

- we systematically review complaint data to identify problem areas and analyse trends
- we act to improve service delivery in identified areas.

Complaint handling process

Legal Aid NSW has a three level approach to complaint handling.

Level 1 Frontline complaint handling

Complaints are resolved by frontline staff at the most informal level wherever possible.

Level 2 Internal Review, Alternative Dispute Resolution or Investigation

If a complaint is not resolved at the lowest level it should be referred for internal review, alternate dispute resolution or investigation.

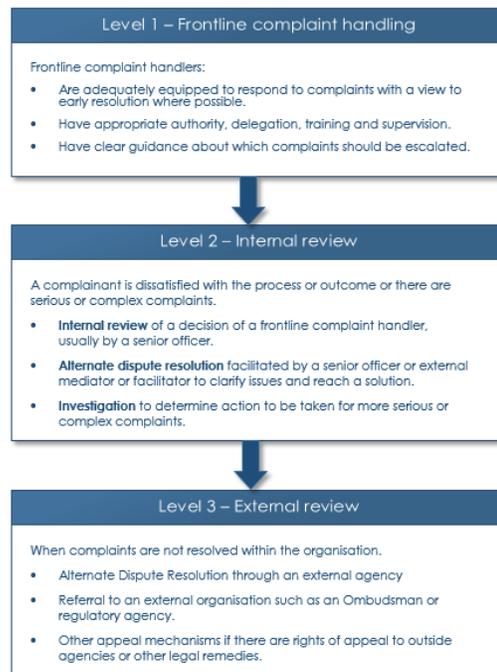

Level 3 External Independent Review

If after internal review a person remains dissatisfied they should be referred to alternate dispute resolution or the following external bodies to seek an independent review.

NSW Ombudsman can review administrative issues.

Office of the Legal Services Commissioner can review legal conduct issues.

The following diagram outlines Legal Aid NSW complaint handling and is based on the NSW Ombudsman's Effective Complaint Handling Guidelines 3rd edition 2017.

Complaint handling in context

The Premier's Priority 12 prioritises improving customer service across government "Improving government services with a target to improve customer satisfaction with key government services". In addition Goal 30 of the NSW State Plan to 2021 is to "Increase customer satisfaction with government services". This goal resulted in the creation of a Customer Service Commission in 2012.

This policy is consistent with the NSW Ombudsman's Effective Complaint Handling Guidelines 3rd edition 2017.

What is a complaint?

A complaint is an expression of dissatisfaction, protest or grievance about the service provided by Legal Aid NSW where a response or resolution is explicitly or implicitly expected or legally required¹. Legal Aid NSW services may include those provided by parties engaged on behalf of Legal Aid NSW such as contractors, private legal practitioners and Family Dispute Resolution Practitioners.

What is not covered by this policy?

The following areas are not covered by this policy.

- Complaints about the merits of grant applications
- Decisions made by the Legal Aid Review Committee
- Outcomes of legal proceedings
- Government Information (Public Access) Act (GIPA) requests
- Privacy issues
- Protected Disclosures
- Staff Grievances
- Allegations about serious misconduct
- Complaints about other agencies or bodies

Recording complaints

Recording complaints is good business practice. It is not possible to identify issues and/or risks or use complaints to improve services without data that is routinely kept for analysis.

All escalated (level 2 - see 'Complaint Handling Process') complaints received by the Central Sydney office should be recorded on the Complaints Register. Delegated staff within each division are responsible for recording information about level 2 complaints on the Complaints Register. Complaints can be referred to the Complaints and Client

¹ AS/NZ 10002:2014 Guidelines for complaint management in organizations

Service Project Officer or Executive Assistant to the Chief Executive Officer for recording where there are no nominated staff.

All practice areas and offices should consider recording frontline (level 1 - see 'Complaint Handling Process') complaints on the 'complaints template' Excel spreadsheet (found on the intranet under 'forms') for internal review and analysis purposes.

A common sense approach to recording complaints should be taken. Minor complaints which are dealt with quickly and informally do not need to be recorded. However, in cases of more substantial complaints or where complainants are not satisfied with an initial response and express this (either in writing or verbally), a record should be kept.

Making a complaint

The Legal Aid NSW complaint process should be visible and easily accessed by clients and stakeholders. There are many barriers preventing people from communicating a complaint. These include but are not limited to low literacy, disability, language proficiency and age.

Staff are expected to be aware of, and inform other parties about, the tools available to reduce the barriers people may face when making a complaint. This might include taking a complaint by phone, internal interpreters, Auslan information, text-to-speech function on our website and the Translator and Interpreter Service (TIS).

This approach is consistent with Legal Aid NSW diversity and inclusion initiatives including Diversity Action Plans.

Complaints can be made in the following ways:

- verbally by telephone
- verbally in person
- by email - complaints@legalaid.nsw.gov.au
- online form
- FeedbackAssist widget on website
- print complaint form
- by letter addressed to:

Complaints

PO Box K847
Haymarket NSW 1238

Privacy

Staff will not normally disclose a complainant's details or information received in a complaint to another person or agency unless Legal Aid NSW has the complainant's permission, has authority or is required to by law, or it would be reasonably expected.

Timeframes (Service Level Agreements)

All complaints should be recorded and acknowledged in writing within three working days of receipt and finalised within 21 calendar days. Where a complaint involves a panel lawyer or other external party the complaint timeframe to finalise the complaint will be within 30 calendar days. If it is not possible to finalise a complaint within that timeframe the complainant must be contacted and told of any delay and when a response is likely.

Regular progress updates should be given to complainants where we are unable to finalise a complaint within the relevant timeframe.

Delegations for complaint handling

The Client Service Unit is responsible for the organisational complaint handling strategy and reports directly to the Chief Executive Officer.

All Staff

All staff are responsible for responding to complaints at the lowest (level 1 - see 'Complaint Handling Process') level.

Directors

Directors are responsible for reviewing (level 2 – see 'Complaint Handling Process') and allocating complaints for their areas and approving responses.

Directors with responsibility for individual regional offices are responsible for reviewing complaints and approving responses about operational issues for those offices.

Complaints and Client Service Officer

The Complaints and Client Service Project Officer is responsible for:

- identifying issues for CEO's consideration
- coordinating complaints
- referring allegations of misconduct to Senior Consultant Workplace Standards
- compiling complaint data reports for the Executive and the Board
- analysing complaint data and identifying systemic issues for service improvement
- keeping complaint information up to date
- general advice on complaint handling
- training on complaint handling
- creating and updating complaint handling policies and procedures.

Executive Assistant to the Chief Executive Officer

The Executive Assistant to the Chief Executive Officer coordinates Ministerials and responses to complaint matters when the Complaints and Client Service Officer is not available.

Chief Executive Officer

The Chief Executive Officer may conduct a final internal review of complaints previously responded to by a Director on a case by case basis.

All responses to Ministerial inquiries and Members of Parliament are signed off by the Chief Executive Officer. The Chief Executive Officer may choose to respond to individual complaints directly or delegate matters to a Director for a response.

Reporting and Quality Control

Legal Aid NSW provides the following reports and data about complaints.

- Monthly reports to the Executive
- Quarterly complaints reports to the Legal Aid NSW Board.
- Complaint data will also be reported in the annual report.
- Weekly reports on open complaints to Directors

Risks and benefits

The following risks and benefits for Legal Aid NSW are identified in relation to complaint handling.

Risks

- Client dissatisfaction
- Increased and ongoing complaints
- No improvement to services
- Lack of transparency
- Damage to Legal Aid NSW reputation

Benefits

- Increased client satisfaction
- Early resolution of complaints
- Improved quality of Legal Aid NSW services
- Identifying and managing risks
- Improved staff complaint handling skills
